"Golden volumes! richest treasures!
"Objects of delicious pleasures!
"You my eyes rejoicing please,
"You my hands in rapture seize!
"Brilliant wits, and musing sages,
"Lights who beamed through many ages,
"Left to your conscious leaves their story,
"And dared to trust you with their glory.
"And now their hope of fame achieved,
"Dear volumes! you have not deceived.".....DR. SYNTAX.

He that will have no books but those that are scarce, evinces about as correct a taste in literature as he would do in friendship, who would have no friends but those whom all the rest of the world have sent to the state prison.....M. HORNBLOWER.

SELF-KNOWLEDGE.—Who seeth not how great is the advantage arising from this knowledge, and what misery must attend our mistakes concerning it? For he, who is possessed of it, not only knoweth himself, but knoweth what is best for him. He perceiveth what he can and what he cannot do; he applieth himself to the one, he gaineth what is necessary, and is happy; he attempts not the other, and, therefore, incurs neither distress nor disappointment.....XENOPHON.

"If you wish to become learned and useful, famed and wise, read. Foster not that morbid appetite to devour the trashy literature of this prolific age. Converse with the grand, instructive and solid authors of every age. Spend your spare moments, 'those neglected scraps of time,' in storing your mind with the facts, events and instructive lessons derived from a well digested course of reading. If you wish to revel in the sublimities of nature—dive into the deep intricacies of the human heart—expand the intellect and sensibilities of your own bosom, and refresh yourself with the wondrous charms of history, poetry, science and general literature, read and bewise.".....LORD CHESTERFIELD.

GOWANS'

BIBLIOTHECA AMERICANA.

Consisting of a series of reprints of rare old books and pamphlets, relating to the early settlement of North America; namely, History, Biography, Topography, Narrative and Poetry. Each book or pamphlet, reprinted accurately and carefully from the original text, with an Historical Introduction and copious Notes, illustrative, biographical, historical, &c., &c.

- No. 1. DENTON, DANIEL.—A brief History of New York, formerly New Netherland (1670). A new edition with copious Notes, by the Hon. Gabriel Furman. New York, 1845, fine paper. $2.50.
- No. 2. WOOLEY, CHARLES.—A two year's Journal in New York, and parts of its Territories in America (1679). A new edition, with copious Historical and Biographical Notes, by E. B. O'Callaghan, M.D. To match Denton's New Netherland. New York, 1860. $2.50.
- No. 3. MILLER, JOHN.—A Description of the Province and City of New York, with the plans of the City and several Forts as they existed in the year 1695. New edition, with copious Historical and Biographical Notes, by John Gilmary Shea, LL.D. New York, 1862. $2.50.
- No. 4. BUDD, THOMAS.—Good Order Established in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, in America, being a true account of the country; with its produce and commodities there made in the year 1685. A new edition, with an Introduction and copious Historical and Biographical Notes, by Edward Armstrong, Esq. New York, 1865. $2.50.

The above four books, touching the early history of the New World, were all produced by residents at the time on the spot, and witnesses to what they relate. In consequence, like all fragments or large treatises, written by eye-witnesses, they possess an interest and authority not connected with the works of copyists or reproducers. These new editions are vastly enhanced in intrinsic value by the Historical and Biographical Notes, added by their respective editors, all well known as being amply capable of doing justice, as commentators on American subjects. Copies of the original editions of these books are worth $100. Budd cost $150.

The edition of the small paper copies was quite limited, and only fifty copies each of the large paper were produced. These volumes will hereafter possess a value far exceeding the originals, for this two-fold reason: First, there are but few produced: and second, they constitute as it were, landmarks in the early history of the North American Colonies, as well as divers other parts of the new found land of America.

- No. 5. ALSOP'S MARYLAND.—An Account of the first settlement of Maryland in 1665, by George Alsop. In preparation and will shortly be published: to match the above.

MOON HOAX, The, bound in cloth to match the above. $2.50.
